Objective

Recent global regulatory development call for the need to strengthen international efforts to combat money laundering and the financing of terrorist activities. European Union (EU) has pushed changes particularly, as evident by on-going enforcements both within and outside EU member states.

Banks, businesses and even individuals in Hong Kong, as far as EU Directives' relevance has been in touch, should comply with both the past and future directives to a large extent. Examples are not limited to include Customer Due Diligence (CDD), risk assessment, suspicious reporting requisites, whilst more are expected in the fight against money laundering and terrorist financing.

This course aims at providing the latest development of compliance culture focusing on Anti-Money Laundering Directives (AMLs) for both banking and non-financial industry practitioners such as Designated Non-financial & Business Professionals (DNFBPs), keeping candidates updated on the global AML requirements, in order to facilitate their key know-hows when working in financial or non-financial institutions in Hong Kong.
