Objective

Data sharing is a key digital transformation necessity to accelerate digital business. However, personal data protection laws in different jurisdictions are not entirely interoperable. How an enterprise may safely and lawfully navigate through a myriad of laws regulating cross-border personal data transfer has become a significant challenge.

Explore the different regulatory environments and requirements for cross-border transfer of personal data, including those of Hong Kong, the European Union and Mainland China.

This course will cover the essence of legal requirements regulating cross-border transfer of personal data and tools available for facilitating cross-border transfer in jurisdictions such as Hong Kong, the European Union and Mainland China.

SPEAKER

Key Description

The speaker was a veteran public policy professional before his current capacity as a Senior Advisor of a consulting firm. In his career spanning some three decades, he has engaged in various public policy areas covering policy-making, implementation and regulatory roles. His portfolio covered mostly trade, industry, innovation and technology, including in the recent decade with two non-government organizations in which he was constantly exposed to innovation and technology-related issues, the last three years of which he immersed in a regulatory role at a senior level in the protection of personal data privacy.
