

Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs) and Green & Sustainability Growth in the Banking Industry

7 Dec 2022 (Wed) | 7:00pm – 9:00pm

HKIB ECF SFC
CPD CPD CPT
2
HOURS

Apply now

Objective

The Environment, Social, and Governance (“ESG”) has become one of the hottest topics in financial service sector in Hong Kong and in other major economies. Conventional banks and virtual banks face increasing regulatory & compliance requirements from the regulators and from their clients.

Bank management will need to acquire necessary ESG concepts & global trends and then formulate strategies for sustainable corporate development.

The course enhances participants’ subject matter knowledge in essential ESG concepts, major global trends and sustainable corporate development directions.

The course enhances participants’ subject matter knowledge in essential ESG concepts, major global trends and sustainable corporate development directions.

SPEAKER

Key Description

The speaker has served the senior management and board management of several listed companies in the past 30 years. He is presently a responsible officer of a licensed corporation, an INED of a listed company and a senior advisor of two other listed companies. He formulated ESG and internal control strategies for listed companies. He is a popular columnist in major financial media and published book titles in ESG and green finance subjects. He is a chartered surveyor and received his PhD in Economics from Jiang Xi University of Finance and Economics and an MBA in Economics from the University of South Australia. He is also a visiting professor or a professor in practice in several universities and academic institutions in Hong Kong and in other regions.

Programme Outline

The banking industry requires a common understanding of the ESG trends in local & global contexts for developing the banks and serving bank clients. Banks are asked to know popular applications of ESG initiatives in the banking industry.

- Definition of SDGs and the importance of sustainability under climate changes
- Definition, importance, and trends of ESG and sustainable finance
- Green finance in Hong Kong and in other major economies
- Applications of the SDGs and ESG in the banking industry development

Target Audience

General banking practitioners to middle management from all banking divisions; and individuals who are interested in the ESG compliance and development.

Apply NOW

Scan the QR code at the upper right hand corner or click here to apply via E-form

Programme Delivery

- Virtual Classroom (Zoom)
- Cantonese

Enquiries

(852) 2153 7800
programme@hkib.org

Application DEADLINE

1 Dec 2022 (Thur)

Christmas Special Offer

HKD 120

Programme Code: HDCPDSUSP221210