

A Review of HKMA's Work on Key Risk Areas of Authorized Institutions

18 September 2018 (Tuesday)

Key Session Features

Cybersecurity remains a key focus of the HKMA's prudential supervision work. At the same time, the HKMA continues to implement the seven Smart Banking initiatives announced in September 2017.

While the asset quality of banks remains good despite the increased uncertainty in global economic and political environment, the HKMA has not reduced its supervisory efforts to ensure banks continue to adopt prudent risk management and loan classification system.

Meanwhile, banks are facing higher operational risk as banking operations become increasingly complex and sophisticated.

The seminar will give an overview of the regulatory developments in these areas as well as the key supervisory focuses of the HKMA going forward.

Target Participants

The seminar is useful for banking practitioners at all levels of all AIs

 Limited seats.
